

Is it possible to visit the Davenport Collection?

You can now visit a major part of the Davenport Collection at the British Magic Museum in North Walsham, Norfolk. Visit their website at <https://www.facebook.com/britishmagicmuseum> or telephone 01692 218310 to check the days on which they are open.

Other parts of the collection are spread over a number of sites in the UK. These cannot usually be visited, but historians with a particular research interest may be able to arrange access. Any such enquiries should be sent to the curator of this website.

The photographs give an idea of the range of items on display at the British Magic Museum.
